Opera Australia celebrates premiere of new La Bohème with free lunchtime concert and special ticket offer

Opera Australia is bringing the romance and drama of opera to the heart of Melbourne, with a free performance at Emporium Melbourne on Tuesday 10 November at 1pm, plus an exclusive $70 ticket offer for all who join on the day.

Taking place at Emporium's Lonsdale Street entrance, the pop-up performance will feature a selection of Opera Australia's Principal Artists performing highlights from the company's much anticipated new production of La Bohème that has its world premiere at the Regent Theatre next month.

A brilliant line up of singers includes Italian soprano Valeria Sepe, alongside soprano Jane Ede, tenor Iain Henderson and bass David Parkin.

As celebrations continue for Opera Australia's 70th anniversary, anyone who turns up on the day will be eligible for $70 tickets to see a full performance of La Bohème.

Included in the offer is a limited number of A, B and C Reserve seats for weekday performances at Regent Theatre, available exclusively in-person on the day and capped at two tickets per person.

One of the world's most beloved operas, this breathtaking new production of La Bohème by visionary Australian director Constantine Costi is set in a snow-kissed Paris. A sumptuous, painting-inspired staging brings the opera's bohemian world to life with hand-painted scenery and beautifully crafted costumes and sets, sung by some of Opera Australia's finest singers.

No booking needed for the pop-up performance, simply turn up at Emporium Melbourne and secure your spot to enjoy a taste of Opera Australia's La Bohème, playing at Melbourne's Regent Theatre from 7–18 November.
